

CALL FOR ADMISSION TO UNDERGRADUATE COURSES
2021-2022 ACADEMIC YEAR

Article 1

Admission to the School

1. The Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies (the School) announces a public competitive examination for 54 places on I Level Honours Courses and the Single-cycle Master Degree Programmes in Medical Sciences and Law, for the 2021/2022 academic year. The number of available places may be increased following publication of this announcement, in case of additional financial and/or logistical resources. The School will provide adequate publicity of those additional places by way of publication on its official website, www.santannapisa.it, in the dedicated admissions area.
2. Honours Students at the School are students of the University of Pisa. Within 30 days of acceptance of their place each successful applicant is required to formally enrol in one of the Three-year Degree Courses or 5 or 6 year Master's Degree programmes in Law and Medicine and Surgery, at the University of Pisa. This course must be related to one of the subject areas of the School (Annex A). The cycle of studies for a I level Honours Student is three years or, in case of a Master's Degree Programme, five years (Law) or six years (Medical Sciences).
3. Successful applicants will be eligible for reserved places at the University of Pisa and will not therefore have to sit any tests required under the University of Pisa degree course enrolment system in case of access programmes.
4. I Level Honours Students and students of Medical Science and Law Master's Programmes will participate in highly qualified training activities, supplemental to those provided as part of Degree Courses at the University of Pisa. These activities include dedicated teaching programmes, accompanied by study visits abroad, as well as internships with Italian and/or foreign structures and/or companies. The School also commits to providing students with advanced foreign language courses, ensuring that at the end of that Course, their knowledge of that language is equivalent to the standards required for international certificates.
5. Students will be provided with free accommodation within the School facilities.

Article 2

Available places and Subject Areas

1. The 54 Honours Student places are divided as follows:

Faculty of Social Sciences: 27 places, including:

- at least 6 places for Economics and Management;
- at least 7 places for Law;
- at least 6 places for Political Sciences;

following these allocations, the remaining 8 places will be allocated to students who have achieved the highest score in the final merit ranking, irrespective of their chosen subject area;

Faculty of Experimental and Applied Sciences: 27 places, including:

- 5 places for Agricultural Sciences and Plant Biotechnology;
- 12 places for Industrial and Information Engineering;
- 10 places for Medical Sciences.

If one or more ranking lists contain an insufficient number of students to cover the number of places available for subject areas in the Faculty of Experimental and Applied Sciences, a single combined ranking list will be prepared for that Faculty. That ranking will be prepared subject to standardisation of the scores in each of the individual subject area rankings, using the Z-score method. The remaining places will be allocated to candidates who have passed the exam and obtained the highest score in the single combined Faculty merit ranking.

Article 3

TOLC Test (Cisia On-line Test) (Pre-selection)

1. With the exception of candidates for Medical Science courses, in order to gain admission to the competitive examination candidates must demonstrate that they have passed the TOLC Test or TOLC@Casa at any of the CISIA affiliated centres, commencing from February 2020 and within the deadline for this call for admissions, as indicated in the table below:

Table 1

6. Once candidates have passed the TOLC or TOLC@Casa test, obtaining at least the minimum score indicated in table 1, they must send their application for their chosen subject area. Only candidates ranked amongst the first 120 (TOLC I), or 80 (TOLC B or AV) or 170 (TOLC E or TOLC SU) out of all applications received will be admitted for the written test.
